INTRODUCTION AND CONTRIBUTION TO WIKIPEDIA

Description of Wikipedia:

Wikipedia is a free, open content online encyclopedia created through the collaborative effort of a community of users known as Wikipedia's. Anyone registered on the site can create an article for publication. Jimmy Wales and Larry Sanger co-founded Wikipedia as an offshoot of an earlier encyclopedia project, Nupe Día, in January 2001. Originally, Wikipedia was created to provide content for Nupe Día. However, as the wiki site became established it soon grew beyond the scope of the earlier project.

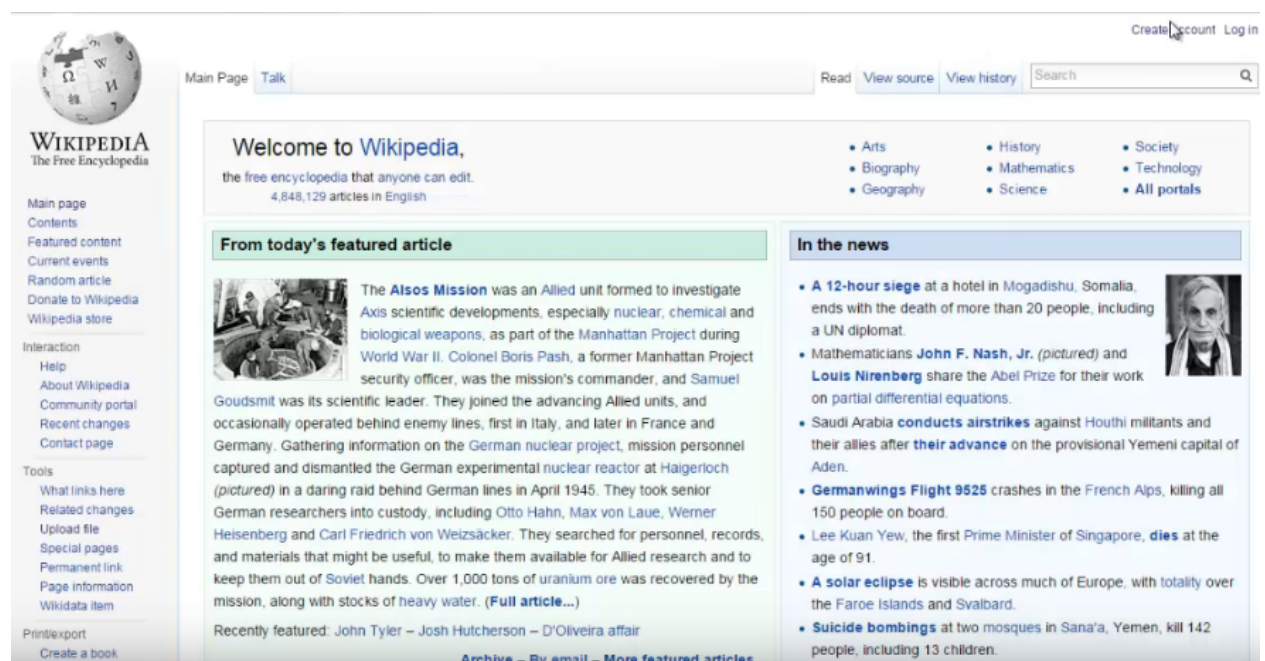

Its feature's:

- 1) It is globally available on all platforms
- 2) it can provide a large amount of information
- 3) Users can share their own thoughts and knowledge
- 4) It is easy to use
- 5) Available in multiple languages

Draft Creation

You're all ready to go! When you create your draft, it will not be seen by external search engines. However, when you finish, you'll be able to submit it to be reviewed by our volunteers. Reviews can take a long time, so please be patient and rest assured that your draft will be reviewed in due course. This may take 4 months or more, since drafts are reviewed in no specific order.

Welcome to Articles for Creation!

Shortcut WP:AFC

The Articles for Creation (AFC) process is designed to assist any editor create a new page as a draft article, which they can work on and submit for review and feedback when ready. The AFC process must be used by non-registered users and by those who do not yet have sufficient editing experience because these groups of editors are not permitted to create articles directly in Wikipedia's mainspace. The AFC process should also be used by anyone with a conflict of interest.

Writing an encyclopedic article from scratch is not easy. We recommend that you first gain some experience by adding material to articles that already exist, or by helping out with other tasks. You should read the page Help:Your first article to avoid common mistakes and save your hard work from being deleted. In some circumstances, it may be more appropriate to request a simple redirect to an existing article than to try to create a new one.

Creating an article

Before you start writing, here are some things you should have in mind:

- Make sure that the topic is notable enough for an article. Is it already covered in an existing article? If not, there is a very good chance that the topic is not notable and will never be accepted as an article. If yes, have you improved that coverage? Improving existing content is a much more successful way of contributing to Wikipedia.
- Articles should reflect only what reliable sources have said about the topic, and all articles need references to reliable sources.
- If you have a conflict of interest with the topic you are writing about, you should disclose it on the draft's talk page.
- If you are being paid to contribute to Wikipedia, you must—under the Wikimedia Foundation's terms of use—disclose who is paying you, who the client is, and any other relevant affiliation.
- If you have an idea for the title of an article, but no content for the article itself, you can make a suggestion at Wikipedia:Requested articles.

Your article title will have “Draft:” in front of it until it is accepted as an article. To start a new draft, click the button below:

Click here to start a new article

Submitting for review

When you are finished, you can submit your article for review by clicking the button “Submit for review”. If you don't see this button, you can add the code `{{subst:submit}}` to the top of your draft (remember to switch to the source editor first). If you see a yellow box saying “Review waiting, please be patient”, you have successfully submitted your draft for review. If you don't see this box, you can ask for help at the Articles for Creation help desk.

Please note that getting a review can take several weeks, but that your draft will be reviewed eventually. In the meantime, we hope that you expand some of our already existing articles.

Welcome

Thank you for your interest in contributing to Wikipedia!

Before creating a draft article, you can practice by first editing in your personal sandbox. It's a great way to try out editing without affecting live articles. If you need some help along the way, see our guide to your first article.

Referencing and notability

Your article will be rejected if the topic is not notable, is not referenced properly, or violates copyright.

Copyright

Do not copy-paste or closely paraphrase material from sources. Rather, summarize what the source says in your own words.

Notability

The topic of an article must already be covered in reliable sources that are independent of the subject. These include academic journals, books, newspapers, magazines, and websites with a reputation for fact checking. Social media, press releases or corporate/professional profiles do not qualify.

Referencing

- Independent sources (see above) are generally acceptable and should be used before other sources.
- Non-independent sources (like company websites or press releases) can be used to verify basic facts only.
- Blogs, social media, and tabloid journalism are generally not acceptable.

To create a reference, use `<ref></ref>` as follows:

Buzzco was founded in 1962. `<ref></ref>`

More detail on how to cite different types of materials can be found at our introduction to referencing guide.

Common mistakes

There are a lot of common mistakes that are made with drafts. Here are a few you must watch out for:

- Writing about yourself or someone/something you're close to
Whether it is yourself, a family member, a friend, an employer, a mentor/business partner, writing about topics close to you (and the people close to you) is discouraged as the article you will create may not be neutral.
- Copy-pasting material
You must write the article in your own words, or it may be deleted.
- Not citing your sources
Articles without independent reliable sources usually get deleted within days.
- Overly promotional language
Terms like “leading expert” and “ground-breaking technology” sound great when promoting a product, but they do not belong on Wikipedia. Let the facts speak for themselves.

Instructions

Creating a draft article takes four steps. Please read carefully.

1. Enter the content of your article in the blank area as illustrated. You may use the Wikipedia Cheatsheet to properly format your article.
 - Remember to use your own words. Do not copy content from another website.
2. List your references in the bulleted area provided or cite them using inline citations. (See example.)
 - Review what is a "reliable source".
3. If you require assistance with your submission, visit our live chat. You may use any nickname you would like, provided that it isn't already taken.
4. When you are finished writing, click the "Publish page" button. Our are all done! We appreciate your submission.

Important

- Please note: Once you click the "publish" button, your draft is saved in a public drafting area. You may continue to work on your draft as long as you like; there is no deadline, but bear in mind that if the draft isn't edited in six months, it may be deleted.
- If the draft is declined, you will still be able to edit it. It is simply marked as declined.
 - When you feel your draft is ready to become an article, you can request a review (or a re-review). To do so, edit your draft, by clicking on its "Edit" button, and add `{{subst:submit}}` at the beginning of your draft.

Find sources: Google (books · news · newspapers · scholar · free images · WP refs) · FENS · JSTOR · NYT · TWL

 Content that violates any copyrights will be deleted. Encyclopedic content must be verifiable. Any work submitted to Wikipedia can be edited, used, and redistributed—by anyone—subject to certain terms and conditions.
